Customer Reviews

Gr 2-4-For many children, "gross" and "fascinating" are synonymous. This latest series installment provides plenty of fodder over which readers can marvel and exclaim. This volume reads like a collection of Pinterest quotes. Each page contains one or two brief facts, most of which are related to bodily fluids or processes-all illustrated with photos and typeset in colorful, eye-catching fonts. Some are historical: "During the 1500s, Brits soaked fabrics in stale urine to help bind color dyes to cloth." Others refer to world records or interesting statistics. There is a detailed subject index and a complete listing of photo credits, but no source references. VERDICT Visually appealing and absolutely disgusting, this highly browsable book is best for the "general facts" shelves in public and school libraries.-Maggi Rohde, Ann Arbor Public Schools, MI (c) Copyright 2011. I bought this as a gift for my nephew. He is 10 and I think this is a great choice for his age. It contains colorful fun pictures and interesting fonts that help engage readers at that age. I haven't given it to him yet my younger girls have already checked it out and enjoy sharing the gross facts with everyone. I'm sure it will be a hit!

My kids enjoy this! Short, quick interesting facts for them to read. It captures their attention and peaks their interest. I homeschool and these are so much better and more captivating than dry textbooks! I ordered several books similar to this, such as "Weird but true! 300 outrageous facts from history" and they're all hits!

My 7 year old loves these books. He can fight me on reading time but if I put one of the weird but true books on the table he will read and share facts all day! Super interesting to him!

My son loved it. He's eight, almost nine. Read the entire thing in a couple days. We deferred after a few pics. It is kinda gross, but kids love that stuff.

The book is great, very interesting and of course having a 6 year old boy he LOVES hearing about any and all things gross. My only issue with this book was the texture of the cover, I personally hate it its rough and it gives me chills but definitely a good buy!

We bought these for our 8 year old daughter. She loved them, and all the crazy new facts she learned.

My 8-year-old daughter can't get enough of this book! It's all she wants to read at night. I wish they would make more volumes of gross facts because we've just about worn these out!

Son loves it....arrived in excellent condition
