You could be strolling down the Royal Mile, climbing up Arthur[™]s Seat, or exploring the many closes, wynds, and courtyards. I[™]m sure you will find the atmosphere fantastic no matter what you are doing. Amsterdam is very cultural, and has many museums and attractions, such as the famous Van Gogh museum, and the Rijksmuseum, but you can also find lesser known gems here. The historical city center of Amsterdam is very beautiful with canal after canal full of old houses fighting for place on the sides of them. The locals are friendly and open towards visitors, and, if you only ask, will be very happy to help you find your way, or recommend somewhere you should see. Of course, Amsterdam is one of the top biking cities in the world, so hire yourself a bike from one of the many cycle shops, and experience Amsterdam as a local. Copenhagen is like a fairytale city and just strolling around enjoying the atmosphere and seeing the sights is a fantastic way to spend a day. It is the city of fascinating architecture, an interesting royal family, and full of Danish ^hygge^™. Hygge translates roughly to cosyness but is much more than that. It is what happens when surrounded by your friends and family. It is candles burning on a dark winter[™]s night. It is what you will discover if you find yourself in a bar with locals. It is the reason you will return to Denmark time and time again!" Click on the Orange buy now button at the top right and grab your copy now!" What makes this Europe for Free 2016 book unique is that the author Lynne Knightley has visited Amsterdam, Copenhagen, and Edinburgh, and their attractions personally, and many times! She finds out the best time to visit each place to avoid the crowds, and uses all her firsthand knowledge to create a
