Customer Reviews

As a beginner of long distance running, I tried mini marathon 2 weeks ago mostly walk. For my age (58 years), I like cycling very much to keep me healthy but it's hard to carry a bicycle from the third floor of my apartment to the ground. It causes my back pain sometime, therefore I try running. So I need a kind of a guide book. After searching through kindle, I found this book interesting specially for average person and step by step made my decision to buy it. It's good for beginners like me, even I've not yet practice any steps just finishing reading. Easy to read and understanding clearly!. I particularly like the section of the power of affirmations.

I have previously run 2 half marathons in the past year so I did not really learn much that was new. The book, however, has some good common sense advice for someone that has not run this distance before. I was especially pleased that the author included some post race advice.

I will be running my first half sometime in 2018. This book gave me a quick insight of what i need to do.

Really good read for beginners getting into this chapter of running.
