Customer Reviews

It's a hymnal. Exactly like the ones in the back of the pews at church. I purchased it for when I was taking organ lessons, but was really glad to have it around just to read. Now I have a 1940 as well! This is the standard, and although I doubt there are many knock-off hymnals out there, there's no reason to buy anything else. Plus I always thought the red one looked better than the blue one.

Arguably the best Church hymnal available today. Well-printed on good paper.

The binding holds up well. I purchased this edition on the recommendation of several fellow choir members and would recommend it to any other Episcopal choir singers.

My criterion for assessment is: does this match in every respect the current official hymnal of the American Episcopal Church, red binding version. It does.

I needed this, as my Church live-streams for when you are out (like due to illness) and having the hymnal to sing along makes it perfect! It also has much worthwhile information to use in your home.

I sent this one back -- it's the "pew" version, which has only a melody line for many hymns. I'm not Episcopalian, so I didn't know. I just wanted to explore yet another hymnal --I have a collection. The version with all parts is $70, which is out of my price tolerance.

Virtually brand new. I bought it for my mother-in-law to add to her collection of hymnals which we sing from on holidays and other special occasions.

Very happy with this item!
