Founded in 1915 as the Cartographic Group, the first division of National Geographic, National Geographic Maps has been responsible for illustrating the world around us through the art and science of mapmaking. Today, National Geographic Maps continues this mission by creating the world's best wall maps, recreation maps, atlases, and globes which inspire people to care about and explore their world.

National Geographic publishes great maps. Because of that I guess they are expensive. Ireland, since the collapse of the Celtic Tiger boom is eager for visitors and provides great free information for the tourist who is willing to look for it. The map of Ireland might be useful for the driver who intends to spend weeks touring the entire island. Most visitors don't have the time or resources for that and focus their time on a specific area for which this map does not have enough detail. The Dublin map is detailed, but free maps of Dublin with enough detail to satisfy the visitor are available all over the place.

Super durable maps and waterproof. And have points of interest on the map so it's easy to find them.

Can't wait to go visit Ireland in the spring. This map will come in handy.

Very good, detailed maps.
