Customer Reviews

I have been hearing for many different sources recently that journal writing is a great idea. So I started it and the first few days went off pretty well. But over the past few days I tend to get really stuck as I have run out of ideas for what I should be writing in my journal. Thank god it occurred to me that I could get some help online and while searching for journal ideas online I came across this book. I was delighted to come across such a wide variety of ideas. The book presents you with almost limitless different things from your life you could be writing about. Many of the ideas are very smart and interesting. The book is definitely recommended to anyone looking for some spectacular journal Ideas !

125 prompts? Yes. Creative? No. Some examples: Write about the last movie you watched - Write about a person who tells bad jokes - Write about a book you did not like - Name one personal trait you dislike. I was hoping for something more creative, less mundane, less obvious, something to spark my imagination. This book did not do it for me. Ali Julia review
