Catwalk (On The Runway)

Synopsis

Big Apple. Bigger Problems. The success of the Forrester sisters' On the Runway TV show lands them a hot ticket to Fashion Week in New York City. Paige is determined to garner the attention of New York's top designers, but her newfound fame threatens to go to her head. Erin wants to help promote the work of some eco-minded designers, but struggles to be taken seriously. Can Paige keep her prima donna behavior in check? Will Erin's involvement hurt the people she's really trying to help? Success in the big city comes with even bigger challenges, and as the pressure grows, so does the drama.

Melody Carlson has written more than 200 books for teens, women, and children. Before publishing, Melody traveled around the world, volunteered in teen ministry, taught preschool, raised two sons, and worked briefly in interior design and later in international adoption. 'I think real-life experiences inspire the best fiction,' she says. Her wide variety of books seems to prove this theory.

Fashion week is coming and the Forrester sisters are busier than ever with their TV show, On the Runway. While Paige seeks interviews with top designers, Erin wants to support designers who care about the environment. I really enjoy these books. They're a fun contrast between a high drama girl and her down-to-earth little sister. I like how Erin tries to set a good example for her gig sister, yet every once in a while Paige puts Erin in her place. This book had a really entertaining look into the fashion design industry, and there were even some guest appearances from some Carter House Girls characters. I'm looking forward to book three! I'm a little sad to see so many one-star reviews. No book deserves a one-star review, imo, unless it's filled with misspellings and terrible writing. This book might not have had the strongest plot, but it was still a fun story. My two cents.

Catwalk was a change of pace for me. Completely different from anything else I've read. It's a YA novel, but first person and not romance or mystery. Just a novel about a Christian teen trying to make it in a world of fashion that she's in by default. She's not into fashion just trying to be a supportive and helpful sister. It's kind of similar to chick lit but not as silly and with more substance.

In the second book in her On The Runway series we see both Paige and Erin Forrester go to New York City for fashion week. Before they leave for New York they interview local designers, including a green designer. She also includes some of the girls from her Carter House series in this book where fans from that series can check in to see what those characters are doing. This book still has the Christian message in it, which keeps the series from being superficial which shows up in young adult books for women. In this book Paige matures into a young woman while Erin deals with surprising news from her best friend that goes with her to the student group at her church.

I actually enjoyed this book even more than the first one. I didn't think I would after reading the teaser at the end of the first book, but it ended up being an entertaining read after all. I liked how the author tied in an entirely separate series into this one, too. The Carter House girls make an appearance in this book, which makes me want to go back and finish that series. Anyway, I am looking forward to digging into book three in this series, Rendezvous. So far this series is a YA winner, in my opinion, and I'm not even into fashion. I suppose I identify more with Erin, the sister. That's what is so good about this book. It's easy to identify with at least one character. They are all very different, and they seemed like they could be real people, which is why I am enjoying getting to know them. The characters are easy to relate to.

I found this book to be a super easy read and very enjoyable. I wasn't looking for a book with a lot of substance I just wanted to have a book that I could enjoy. This book reminded me of watching a good teeny bopper movie like She's the Man or Princess Diaries. You don't watch those movies when you are looking for amazing you watch them because you enjoy them and when you are done you feel great! Also, please note this book is rather short. I was able to finish it rather easily in 3 days.

My high school students love this series and this author!

This is the second book in this series and I have read both of them and was thrilled to find Catwalk on the free book list. This is a great read about 2 young girls breaking into the TV industry as well as the fashion industry. Catwalk is about their time in New York on "Fashion Week".

This is a good book for sisters and friends it tells you how to be a good sister and friend
