Fascinating!

What a book, colors, auras, fantastic information, healing is possible you just have to be in touch with your feelings, emotions, and body.

Brilliant book! One which deepens in its relevance over time, and destined to be a classic over time. It has become a roadmap and inspiration for future generations of healer-scientists in the new century.

This book is very interesting. It approaches medicine from a whole body perspective; something that should be done more often. It ties different alternative medicines together... it may be outlandish for some... but still a good read...

This book is really great. I am studying vibrational medicine at the moment and wanted to find something that gives me all the information I needed. Well I got more than I bargained for! Richard Gerber is an excellent writer and gives very detailed information that is easy to understand. The most useful and educational book I have ever read, I highly recommend :)

So full of necessary information to realize what is truly going on in this world!

A scientific approach to the energy healing method. Great.

Richard Gerber has attempted to link science to the spiritual subject of energy healing which at best is a difficult task. Being a Reiki Healing Channel myself for the last 16 years, my experience with healing people matches greatly with what he has presented in this book. I have used many of his mentioned healing arts such as flower essences, crystals, magnets, yoga techniques over the years & have found them to be useful as well as beneficial. His Einstein dominant approach vs the present Newtonian thinking convinces through his explanations, the mindset we should be following as science matures to catch up with understanding the universe (or rather multiverse) we live in. The book explains the theoretical basis of many energy based healing modalities which can sound miraculous but which are based on natural laws as yet not fully understood or acknowledged by the majority. There is a saying among the Hindus: A poet reaches (by expression) where the Sun cannot & experience teaches (goes beyond expression in words) what a poet cannot. Science may try to prove many things right or wrong but it is limited due to following the defined route of the scientific method which presupposes many givens & constants. Nature is far more complex & has many more variables which cannot be correctly deduced in an experimental environment. Thus, the need for experience which can only be authenticated by a practitioner. The greater the number of practitioners who conclude the same results upon testing such methods, the more truth such methods prove. Richard Gerber has exposed us to such practitioners & their experiences.
