Tales Of The Tropics: Stories Of Hawaii, Guatemala, And Mexico

Synopsis

This is a book about one person's experiences, about the intrigue, the confusion, and the culture shock of living in a foreign country or an unfamiliar culture. It is a kaleidoscope of what could happen, or what did happen, when our life-long value system and our commonplace expectations are upended, and we are forced by circumstances we can't control to make decisions we don't understand. We are forced to choose among compromise, evasion, defiance, or some version of all three, and we begin to expect the unexpected.

Customer Reviews

I laughed out loud about the stories of Pickwick, the meanest cat in the world. If you have been an expat, you will relate to the tales. If you have always lived in the USA, you will wonder why you were not more adventurous. Liz Moulder has had an interesting life and lived to tell about it.

This is truly a great book! It's not only adventurous and exciting but is written in a humorous way. If you like to travel or would like to live in an exotic country and want to know the ins and outs, this is a must read book. Just some of the chapters I especially enjoyed were: All the chapters about Pickwick the Meanest Cat, (the author actually brought this cat with her in her travels!) The World According to Helen Or Confessions of A Taiwanese Kleptomaniac, Landladies I Have Known And Tricks I Have Played. When they say "Live your life to the fullest" I believe this author has done just that and is still living this excitement everyday! And because she has a love for the people and the land, she is able to approach this subject in a most sincere way. Three Cheers with a margarita to this outstanding Author, Thank you for sharing your adventures with us!
