Erin Hunter is inspired by a love of animals and a fascination with the ferocity of the natural world. As well as having great respect for nature in all its forms, Erin enjoys creating rich, mythical explanations for animal behavior. She is the author of the Warriors, Seekers, Survivors, and Bravelands series. She lives in the UK. Visit her online at www.warriorcats.com.

My 10 year old son spent all of the money he received for his year-end straight 'A' report card to buy all of the Warriors' sets. He loves them! I, too, am reading them (52 years old and much more emotional...I cry at least once a book). He has started sharing his Warriors' books with classmates and the books are receiving high ratings from them, as well. I have recommended the Survivor series (dogs) to a classmate's mom who was having trouble getting her son to read (their 5th grade class is required to read a half hour each week day and one weekend day). These books grab your attention and keep it, to the point of not wanting to put them down. We even think of our cats differently now :-). Authors, Thank you so much for sharing your talents! We would love to see a movie or TV series, as well. All of the books sets that were ordered arrived on time (even the pre-ordered ones) and in new condition. VERY satisfied with the entire experience.

This is the second full volume set I have got my son in 6 months. He loves the first five books so much that it was only logical to buy him the next set so he could continue reading. Only thing that is not in my favor is I find him with a book under covers at 2:00am. Lol The book are adequate to last soft cover with a nice dark side picture on each. They come in a nice sturdy series boxes that hold all 5 books and that's a big plus for my Son. :-) Great set of volume books for older youth with good reading skills.

My 10 year old son is obsessed with these books, he had read an earlier series from the library at school. I felt like the box set was a great value. He had already read the first book, but I think the set was still less than buying only some of the books separately. Plus he likes to refer back sometimes since these are such long sagas...

My daughter has been hooked on the Warrior Cats series since she was 9 years old. She has managed to acquire the entire first series through used bookstores, and thrift shops. Took her awhile to get them all, and they weren't in consecutive order either. That didn't stop her from reading the series out of sequence, and reading them multiple times until she stumbled upon another used book in the series. She even picked up a few books from the other series, and read those too.

That's how good these books are. Knowing how much she loved the first series, I couldn't have her wait as long as she did acquiring this second series the same way she did with the first one. She was itching to read more about these cats, so I had to get the second series for her. I definitely got my monies worth, because she blew through the entire series within a week of its arrival. She has read these books over several times since. She's also got her friends hooked on these cats. You can not go wrong with any of the Warrior Cats books. The New Prophecy is no exception. My daughter prefers these books over her tablet or Nintendo DS any day.

My 11 year old daughter is in love with all things Warriors! I am so thankful for this series because it has really gotten her into reading! I love them because they are real stories with happiness, romance, jealousy, politics, as well as sadness. She laughs and she cries. Oh and she already loves CATS so this was purrfect for her! I was reluctant to buy them at first, because she can check them out at our local library for free, BUT it's a very popular series. She was always having to wait on someone else to finish the book! It took her almost an entire semester to read through most of the first series because of this! I finally just bought the last two books so she could start on this one! Needless to say, she's one happy tween! I'd much rather her be reading these books, than being on the internet or playing video game.

My (then-future) husband bought me Watership Down as a birthday gift long years ago, and I loved it. No other animal stories have quite lived up to its memory till I started reading Erin Hunter's Warriors books. Last Christmas my husband, still wisely predicting my tastes, bought me the first series of Warriors, and last week he bought me the second. I'm delighted to say I still love these wonderful cats. Erin Hunter has an enviable talent for telling stories within a series. Each novel is complete in itself, one major danger having slowly been revealed and dealt with, one set of relationships having been brought into question and either resolved or convincingly shelved, and one deliberate forward step having clearly been taken in the overall story arc. I could pick easily any single book up and read it without feeling lost. Or I can read them one after another (I did) without feeling bored. The overarching story is nicely plotted, keeping me eager to know more. The cats have pleasingly convincing characters and a well-researched way of life. And the spirituality of Star-Clan watching from the heavens is delightfully drawn, even to non-believers and the fate of the lost. The mythic lends a satisfying completeness to the characters, and, while human emotions are easily recognized, these cats are always their own well-defined individuals, never devolving into animals playing at people. Two-legs (or No-furs, of whatever else we are called) cause much trouble in the world around us. But warrior cats aren't perfect either. Erin Hunters stories come pretty close to perfection though, and I highly recommend them. Disclosure: My husband bought them for me. My mother's going to read them next. And me, I couldn't put them down.
