Excellent tour guidebook overall. I would buy it for my friends and anyone else I knew who was going to be traveling widely throughout Peru. For my first two weeks I traveled with a guide who lives in Lima. While she knew about many of the locations listed, even she was impressed by some of the history detailed in this guide. Each segment/area of Peru is broken up into areas with suggested timeframes for seeing the sights whether it be outdoor hiking, supporting local art/crafts, or my favorite, food. Due to this detail, it would actually be most helpful to get this book in the planning stage prior to your trip as there is a lot of helpful insight. Used most: information on where to stay, what to see, when to get a guide/go with a group and local tips (which areas have ATMs, when to bring cash/how to prepared for power outages). Used least: Maps (they aren't detailed enough to use for navigation), restaurant tips (while some were right on, this section is likely to be outdated due to the fluid nature of restaurants in Peru). Bottom line: Buy this book if you want a comprehensive tour guide for Peru! Cheers and enjoy your travels.

I used this book for a 2 week trip to southern Peru. I primarily used it for museums/things of interest to do, as well as the historical or cultural info on specific areas. It did a very nice job of giving a good background on geographical areas. For some reason the layout was a little hard for me to follow, not many pics. I recommend this book. Nice maps.

This made my trip to Peru perfect. Footprints is the only company that updates their SA handbooks annually; the food recommendations were almost always spot on, and there were plenty of uncommon places recommended that was a huge surprise. After my experience, I will only be using Footprints for any future South American travel.

If you try to ship it to Peru you get in burocratic trouble. They have some kind of law that needs a review of items that contain maps of Peru from ministry of foreign affairs or so. (As if there would not be google maps accessible here) Many bring it with them and that's ok but if you want to send it- oh hell.
