When Norene's sons became teenagers, she realized how much she missed being a room mom. Making sweet treats with the kids and throwing classroom parties were all a thing of the past. As a result, she created Party Pinching, a popular website where she could blog about her cute food and budget friendly party ideas. Her adorable desserts have been featured in Family Fun magazine, Seventeen magazine, Taste of Home, and praised by Martha Stewart and endorsed by Shark Tank's Barbara Corcoran. She is a frequent guest on New Day Northwest, a morning television show in Seattle where her easy dessert demonstrations get rave reviews. Norene lives in the Seattle area with her husband, two sons and a beagle. Visit Norene's website Party Pinching at partypinching.com

This book is absolutely wonderful! The layout is well organized, flows nicely. The photos show the details of the sweet treats quite well. The tips and suggestions really help with making one of the items in the book or customizing one of the sweet treat ideas/recipes! I do hope there will be more books to come, holidays, special events like bridal showers, milestone birthdays, graduations, etc, etc... I have already shown this book to many folk including preschool directors. They are planning on buying it and live the ideas in this book!

This book is so pretty, it is easy to read, the recipes are well explained. The creativity is just amazing. Norene makes such fabulous creations, even I am tempted to try them, and I never liked to play with food! I cannot wait to try these out for my young friends, maybe they can even help make them! There is a picture for every occasion, be it holidays or theme parties.

This is a great book for affordable yet impressive holiday treats. I was introduced to Norene Cox's ideas by my sister who made the incredible Thanksgiving graham cracker tables complete with turkey and mashed potatoes. It was the most amazing thing. My sister-in-law made the darling marshmallow hot chocolate mugs. I purchased this book for my craft crazy friend who does up her house in grand style for the holidays. It was hard to stop looking through the book when I should have been wrapping it. I highly recommend it for fun easy holiday ideas.

Great ideas inside.

There are some very cute ideas in this book. Additionally,, they are pretty easy to make with 2 year olds while being interesting enough to capture the attention of a 14 year old. We ordered it for Christmas but there's so many cute ideas in there, we will be using it all year long!

Very cute book! Love how the author uses store bought good for everything. Makes things much easier as a Mom to fit in time to make goodies with the kids. My boys 9 & 6 had an easy time making the werewolf cups and they turned out very well. Can't wait to see what they pick out to do for Christmas.

Norene is creativity beyond compare. Her cute little sweets are so easy to make with every day supplies. Not only are there photos of each treat with complete instructions but Norene also gives helpful hints and tells you where you can pick up some of the product. Aren't we all so lucky that she fulfilled her dream and helps us to impress our friends and grand kids with these adorable treats.

I have had a quick look through this book and love the ideas and how she uses sweets to make things, I'm looking forward to brain storming to create what I want. I think the turkey dinner table stood out the most for me but it's because it's that's kind of idea I'm looking for.....roll on Halloween and Christmas !!!
